SKIN TREATMENTS

Pigmentation

Remove unsightly sun spots and pigmentation

Benign skin pigmentations can be treated very efficiently using IPL or IPL/RF technology. This involves exposing excessive pigments to highly energetic intensive pulsed light. The light is absorbed by the melanin (the dark skin pigment in the skin) and converted into heat. The surrounding tissue is neither heated nor destroyed. The pigment change is shed bit by bit in the form of tiny skin flakes.

Acne Treatment

Reduce acne and repair skin tissue.

Treating acne with IPL or IPL/RF technology is all about fighting the propioni bacteria that cause the inflammation and reducing the size of the sebaceous glands and the quantity of sebum they produce. Porphyrins (naturally occurring molecules in the inflamed acne) absorb light in the blue wavelength spectrum. When porphyrins absorb light in this wavelength spectrum, heat is produced. The photothermal process releases chemical substances that are able to selectively destroy the propioni bacterium.

Skin Rejuvenation

Reduce lines & wrinkles with collagen & elastin cell regeneration

This has a visible smoothing effect on lines. Light energy is converted into heat. The energy this produces focuses on the deeper layers of the dermis, which contain the tear-proof collagen fibres and elastic fibres. The treatment stimulates the skin cells to start producing skin-tautening collagen and elastin again. The result is healthy, young and fresh-looking skin.

Vascular Treatments

Reduce & eliminate spider veins, Rosace and broken capillaries on the face and body.

It is possible to treat this unattractive skin condition cosmetically. This is done by shooting a controlled light pulse onto the affected area. This causes a sudden heating of the vessel, which clots the blood and "welds" the vessel shut. The body's lymphatic system breaks down the coagulated blood into its constituent parts and transports them away naturally.
